

Certification from CA Technologies

We strongly encourage IT professionals to pursue higher levels of expertise in their CA products through CA Education and Certification. CA Partners and CA technical and support team members are required to obtain certification for the specific products they work with.

You benefit: Certification from CA Technologies is a distinction that proves your significant product knowledge and capabilities to others. Getting certified can reduce your reliance on escalated support, speed issue resolution time and position you as a critical member of your team.

Your company benefits: Certification can enable your company to qualify for and win more projects and strengthen customer confidence in your expertise. Certification can lead to lower costs and improved return on investment from better implementation, management and administration of CA Technologies products.

An Enhanced Testing Experience

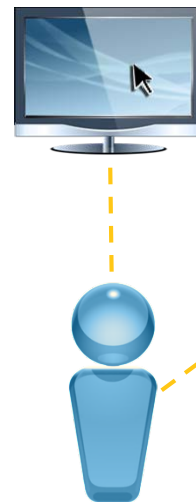

You can take your CA Certification exam at your office , home, or testing center!
